Alvis TD 21 DHC

1959

I just bought this superb convertible from one of my english customers with whom I did some business in the past. Already a few years ago, I was impressed by its magnificent condition. I was not surprised to learn that this car won the Alvis concours in 1992. Spotless old english white coachwork with super attractive red leather upholstery and dark red hood. The chrome wire wheels provide the sparkling finishing touch. Concours condition engine bay. This Alvis TD DHC is almost certainly the most comfortable open car I have ever driven. I intend to use her for some classic car touring in the Pyrenées this May month with my classic car club HVCB. Unless you steal her from me ?
