Aston Martin DB2 Coupé

1953

Gallery

I found this rare LHD version of the DB2 in France. Equipped with triple Weber carburetors, dual fuel pump, oilcooler and upgraded suspension, it was clear that this DB2 had a previous sporty life in the USA what is confirmed by commemorative brass plates on the dashboard. Unused, the last couple of years while on the continent, this DB2 will need some tender loving care before she will be able to be used on sporty historic events once again. One of my good friends and very regular customer, agreed within a couple of days to buy the car.
